A FREE WEEKLY PRODUCTION BY COMMUNITY VOLUNTEERS

"At midnight, in the month of June, I stand beneath the mystic moon." Edgar Allan Poe JUNE 2, 2021

MAIN STREET IN THE LATE 1940s AND EARLY 1950s: THE NORTHWEST SIDE

I came out of Covid hibernation and went to the April monthly meeting of the Post volunteers. It was held in the Bicentennial Room of the Community Center. There are big photographs of Pittsfield in earlier times on its walls. Most of them have descriptive labels attached, and I probably gave more attention to the photos than I did to the meeting.

Pittsfield, a hundred or more years ago, was a really busy place, and it stayed that way until after the Second World War. That's when better roads, bigger trucks, and better communications took away the economic advantages of small local manufacturing.

A few days after that Post meeting, I got to talking with Larry Berkson, who really knows about Pittsfield and its past. I asked him if his recollections of the town where he grew up agreed with my sense that this town used to have a lot more going on than it does now.

Larry really dived into answering me. He talked about how many grocery stores there were in town: about three men's clothing stores and one for women's clothes; and much more than I could keep track of.

I asked him if there was a written form of what he was telling me and he said he would look. Shortly after that he sent me an article he'd written which describes the Main Street of town in about 1950. It's really detailed and too long to submit to the Post as written. But Larry told me it was alright to do some editing if needed, and I have. Here is Part 1 of what Main Street used to be. - Bill Miskoe

Main Street was an extremely busy place in the late 1940s and early 1950s. It was filled with shops, stores, and huge, single-family residences.

Beginning at the top of Factory Hill was the Washington House, which evolved from town founder John Cram's house, occupied by him in 1770. Next came the Union Block, erected in 1876 after the Valentine's Day Fire which leveled the former building. The third floor was added in 1895. In the late 1940s and early 1950s it contained three businesses. On the left side was the Pittsfield Savings Bank run by Courtland Paige. In the center was the Paige Insurance Agency run by Gilbert Paige. On the right side was a series of stores, the A & P grocery store, Joe and Tony's vegetable stand, and later other variety stores such as Boyd's Market and now K-2. Upstairs there were at least two apartments.

Salute and gratitude to Laurie Houle and her merry band of volunteers for placing flags for our veterans at Floral Park Cemetery, the Norris Road Cemetery and the Community Center Cemetery. Laurie and others also take care of placing flags at several of the more remote cemeteries in Pittsfield.

Next came the Congregational Church, also built after the conflagration of Valentine's Day, 1876. This was followed by what was known in the olden days as the infamous "Fort Wilkins," which was owned by the eccentric dentist, barber, and jack of all trades, G. G. Wilkins. He ran a store there, with a bear tied up out front. During the 1940s through the 1960s, it was occupied by Hemeon's Store.

Friends of the Suncook River, your help is needed to save this non-profit from disappearing. The Friends of the Suncook River has been inactive for months, but this month an annual report needs to be filed with the state to keep the non profit alive. Getting non-profit status is really difficult so it would be a shame to lose it, as we can position the group around any aspect of the Suncook River we decide upon. If interested email me at pauloman555@yahoo.com ASAP.

The Pittsfield Historical Society is conducting its annual membership drive and we would love to have you as a member! Besides getting to see and hear first hand the history of our town, membership dues support the infrastructure of the society and help pay for the office supplies, heat, electricity, water and our

There is a dues membership category for everyone! Please visit the Pittsfield Historical Society website at www.pittsfieldhistory.com to view the information. We appreciate your support.

Close up of Josiah during the restoration process

Plan a visit to the Library! View Restored Portraits of Josiah and Georgiana Carpenter

The restored portrait of Josiah Carpenter will return to the library on June 4. To allow people to have a good close look, the portrait will be displayed at eye level through June 24. Georgiana Carpenter's portrait was previously restored by Martha Cox Painting Conservation of Shapleigh, Maine.

The library is grateful to have received funding for the work from the NH State Council on the Arts Conservation License Plate Program, more affectionately known as Moose Plates, and the Globe Community Fund. Leslie Vogt

PMHS Student Spotlight Sea Turtle Research Project

My favorite subject is biology because I'm really interested in learning about the natural world and being able to understand and question the many fascinating aspects of nature.

Why did I choose this particular investigation? I think that being able to learn about the life of sea turtles using an interactive website is exciting. By analyzing data collected by satellites, I followed a loggerhead turtle named Miss Piggy and a leatherback turtle named Freckles. It was actually fun to try to predict where they may go from day to day.

The tracking program puts a tracker on the backs of turtles they find and follow their movements and to study their migration patterns to learn more about the lives of turtles. Freckles spent the week in the North Atlantic pretty far away from land, but stayed closest to the coast of New England. Leatherback turtles usually only go on beaches to nest and lay their eggs, Freckles spends all of her time away from beaches. Leatherback turtles usually migrate in the summer months though and go up north and look for jellyfish. Because of Freckles movement patterns it can be guessed that she is beginning to migrate and look for food where her species typically likes to reside.

What did I hope to learn from my work? I hoped to learn about the everyday life of sea turtles and where they swim from one day to the next. Eventually, I would identify patterns of sea turtle migration. I find it really interesting to use satellite technology to learn about animals, to observe what they do and research why they do it.

I have included one of the slides from my presentation that shows the migration pattern of Freckles the leatherback turtle. Natalie DeGreenia, Class of 2024

To my constituents in Pittsfield,

During the week of May 17, my committee unanimously recommended two bills to the House: SB 58, which coordinated the statutory language for many of the licensing boards under the Office of Professional Licensure and Certification. Unlike other bills we've seen, this had almost no policy changes, just clarification and synchronization. SB 104, updating some state employees' job classifications and job titles, also included language controlling reverse auctions (the sellers bid, and low bid wins the contract) and different appointing mechanisms for some senior employees in the Department of Administrative Services.

We also reviewed in detail most of SB 155, which puts some of the emergency orders into statute. We defined "temporary health partners" - nursing assistants' assistants! - and authorized pharmacy technicians to perform Covid tests. Summer camps that rely on a zoning variance were authorized to continue, even if they were not open, or at reduced capacity, these last two summers. We specified that outdoor dining (and drinking) could continue within the local ordinances or rules, and within the capacity of the septic system.

We also heard a variation of the amendment to ban vaccine passports, which simply put vaccine status into the non-discrimination statutes. This drew a lot of testimony on both sides, but mostly from the same people and groups that spoke on the original amendment.

The week of May 24 my committee finished its meetings for the year by recommending the last two Senate bills. SB 133, our licensing omnibus, was amended as we had agreed in previous meetings, then passed unanimously. SB 155 was not so agreeable. The original seven sections (one deleted as unnecessary) were amended as we had previously discussed - mostly for clarity. The additional section added by a separate hearing bans discrimination on the basis of immunization status, a so-called vaccine passport. This was contentious, as all the Democrats were opposed to the idea and one Republican left early. One even insisted that vaccine passports were imaginary, and that it wasn't an issue in New Hampshire - even though employees of two large organizations (not in health care) showed us their company policies. So, after some heated debate, we tied 9-9 on that section and will present the bill with two amendments - identical until you get to the last section.

The House will meet on June 3 and 4, to vote on all Senate bills. My committee agreed on all but two of ours, so most of them will be voted on the consent calendar, all the non-controversial bills at once. We will debate SB 155, and maybe SB 105: the omnibus on commemorations, which we amended to be only solar eclipse day. I'll be defending our choice to not add an eleventh state song and not commemorate metastatic breast cancer day, Representative Carol McGuire mcguire4house@gmail.com 782-4918

Main Street Continued Originally run by his father "Fedo," it was a hang-out for many men. The topic of conversation was often baseball. A die-hard Yankee fan, Buster often threw out Bill Meyers, a die-hard Red Sox fan, after a loud and vitriolic argument. One of the interesting features was the small opening between the shop and Hemeon's Store, through which Buster could order his cigarettes. Upstairs was an apartment occupied by the Hemeons.

Next came the Green Block, formerly the Batchelder Block, built in 1887. On the left side was Greens Drug Store, founded by Charlie Green but later taken over by his daughter Margaret "Babe" and son-in-law Alfred Jenisch. It had an old fashioned soda fountain. I remember Florence Philbrick and my sister, among others, working there. On the right side was the First National Store run by Clarence "Toot" Daley, and later the A&P run by Melvin Severance. Upstairs there were three apartments, one occupied by my grandfather, Barney Berkson, who ran his store, Barney's Clothing, there until moving down to Depot Street. The third floor was occupied by a series of secret societies, including the Pythian Sisters.

Across Elm Street was a building occupied by Montgomery's men's clothing store on the left, and Mayland Foss's Jewelry Store on the right.

The next building was Volpe's Grill, which had its beginnings in the next building, attached to the Opera House Block, location of the present flower shop formerly run by Ginny Hayes. It was one of the better restaurants in town, along with Grace's Lunch on Elm Street. There were apartments upstairs. It was destroyed by fire in June 2009.

The little building attached to the Opera House was occupied by Cotton's Flower Shop which later moved across the street into the old John Berry Stand.

The Opera House itself was built in 1883 by Charles H. Lane. On the left was the Public Service office. Then came Dustin's Store, which sold dry goods. The next was John Varney's Meat Market. Later he took over his parents' business, the Chichester Country Store. On the right was the Pittsfield National Bank, run by Herbert Fischer.

The second floor of the Opera House Block contained apartments, in one of which the Courtland Paige Family lived for a while. There, my sister and I were baby sat while my parents attended the gala events on the third floor—plays, dances, singing, magic acts, graduations etc.— and even roller skating races in the early years. Indeed, it was the town's social center for decades. There were also offices on the second floor, one occupied I believe by a dentist and another by a chiropractor. The third floor was removed in 1963.

After the Opera House Block came Dustin Park with its World War II Memorial and Green Bandstand. Next was and is St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, built in 1863, with the under-croft added by R. C. Foss in 1975. This building was followed by the little Mobil Gas Station, run by Dosilva "Tee" Bouchard from its construction in 1939 into the early 1950s.

It was later replaced by a larger station, operated by Ralph Esburnett. In 1976 the building was torn down and replaced by the bank building still standing there today.

Across Carroll Street, John Perkins and family occupied the old Tuttle Mansion, erected in 1875 by future New Hampshire Governor Hiram A. Tuttle. From there, Mr. Perkins, an undertaker, ran his funeral business. The parlor and waiting rooms were magnificent. He performed his work in the attached barn.

Next was the Advent Church, attended religiously by a small congregation which included Beverly Adams and her children Margie and Arthur Morse, and Ruth Cram and family. The building was erected in 1891, a partial basement added in 1912, the attached stable converted into rooms in the 1920s, a new basement room added in the 1960s, and a complete undercroft in 1996.

The church was followed by the Old Meetinghouse which was occupied by the town offices on the first floor and the upper floors by various organizations such as the Masons, Red Men and Boy Scouts. First occupied in 1789 by the town and Congregational Church, it became the exclusive property of the town in 1841. In 1881 the third floor was added by the Masons for their use. After the fire of 1984, it remained unoccupied for several years until the end of the decade, when it was restored as the Pittsfield Community Center. (from research provided by Larry Berkson. School Board Review May 20, 2021

While the School Board meeting minutes will continue to be made available, in an effort to inform and involve more stakeholders, the board would like to contribute a short overview of the meetings here for the community to review.

At our last meeting, our site council representative, Harrison Hill, gave his last report to the board. His work for the past two years is appreciated. Thank you, Harry!

Derek Hamilton highlighted end of the year celebrations for 8th graders and seniors. The Eighth Grade Promotion Ceremony will be held on Tuesday, June 15, at 6:00pm. The Senior Awards Ceremony and Commencement will be held Friday, June 11, at 7:00pm and Saturday, June 12, at 10:00am, respectfully. Congratulations to our students and families celebrating these milestones. Additionally, Derek shared about some exciting opportunities for summer learning with Summer Academies. This year students will be able to Create Your Own Summer Adventure or participate in Sarah and Amber's Excellent Adventure to extend their learning while having fun!

Kathy LeMay also highlighted Summer Camps at PES. These 3 week summer camp options are intended to re-engage students while building transferable skills. PES was pleased to share data from Spring Student-Led Conferences. 85% of learners and families participated- up from 76% in the Fall.

Dr. John Graziano was pleased to report that the Tuition Study Committee report will be brought forward to the school board on time. He wanted to thank the members of that committee for their hard work and tremendous effort. Dr. Graziano also reported the End of Year Celebration the district is having for retirees and other dedicated school staff on Friday, June 18.

The board welcomes all community members to attend our next meeting, Thursday, June 3, at 5:30pm in the PMHS Lecture Hall or join us via Zoom. Molly Goggin, mollymoultonbrooks@gmail.com 603-387-1396

Cook's Corner

Ice Pop-A-Looza!

Nothing sings Summer like a frosty ice pop on a hot afternoon. Look for fresh fruit and berries at our local farmers' markets and whip up a few of these for your crew. Shop for ice pop bags on Amazon.com. I found the Ozera brand, they're about $8 for 150 bags and they have a 'zip lock' top (genius!). Use a small funnel to fill the bags. Here are six ideas for ice pops, including one for our chocolate-lover friends, but use your imagination and come up with new combos. Happy ice-popping!

Lemon-Apricot Fruit Pops

- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 tsp grated lemon zest
- ¼ cup lemon juice
- 4 tsp sugar
- 1 cup sliced fresh apricots (4 to 5 medium size)
- ½ cup ice cubes
- 1 tsp fresh mint (optional)
- 6 ice pop pouches

Place first 6 ingredients in a blender; cover and process until smooth. If desired, stir in the fresh mint. Pour the mixture into the ice pop pouches and freeze until firm.

Raspberry Ice Pops

- 3 cups fresh raspberries, cleaned
- 1 & ½ cups coconut water
- 6 Tbsp honey
- Sparkling wine, such as Prosecco for serving (optional)

In a blender, puree the raspberries with the coconut water and honey on low speed (blending on low reduces foam in the mixture). Strain through a fine mesh sieve, in batches if necessary, into a large measuring cup. Pour mixture into ice pop pouches and freeze at least 4 hours.

For a fun adult treat, serve the ice pop in a tall wine glass with sparkling wine (remove the ice pop from the pouch).

Blueberry or Strawberry Ice Pops

- Combine everything in a blender and mix on low until 2 cups blueberries (washed), or 2 cups strawberries (washed, sliced & remove green tops)
- ¼ cup apple juice

- 2 Tbsp honey
- ½ lemon, juiced
- 1 pinch of salt

Combine everything in a blender and mix on low until smooth. Pour into ice pop pouches and freeze for at least 4 hours.

Pineapple Cream Ice Pops

- 2 & ½ cups pineapple chunks (packed in juice), drained
- 3 Tbsp orange juice
- 1 Tbsp honey
- 2 cups vanilla Greek yogurt

Puree the pineapple, OJ and honey in a blender until smooth. Put about 2 Tbsp of the mixture into the ice pop pouch, then top with 2 Tbsp of the yogurt, then repeat the layers until done. Freeze for at least 4 hours.

Fun alternative idea – use canned Mandarin oranges instead of pineapple.

Strawberry or Raspberry & Watermelon Ice Pops

- 2 cups watermelon chunks
- 1 cup fresh strawberries (cleaned & trimmed) or raspberries
- 1 cup orange juice (preferably fresh squeezed)
- 2 Tbsp lime juice
- 1 Tbsp honey

Combine all ingredients in the blender and mix on low until smooth. Pour into ice pop pouches. Freeze for at least 4 hours.

Jack's Chocolate Ice Pops

- ¾ cup sugar
- 3 Tbsp flour
- 3 Tbsp baking cocoa
- 4 cups milk

In a large saucepan, combine sugar, flour and cocoa. Gradually stir in the milk until smooth. Bring the mixture to a boil over medium heat; cook and stir for about 2 minutes until it thickens.

Let it cool slightly before filling your ice pop pouch
